View from footpath FLY/64/1 looking further to the west showing approximate locations of stuctures on the west slope - the current white roof of one yurt can be seen in the distance. This is to be replaced with khaki canvas to reduce visual impact.

View from footpath FLY/62/1 to the southeast of the site looking back over the site towards Yorkley Court farmhouse. Showing the approximate area of nissen hut, hanger and some dwellings. All structures are and will continue to be comprehensively screened by extensive existing tree cover that will be maintained.
The view further to the west of this towards the western structures is completely obscured by the mature trees in the northern part of 'Ten Acre Wood', the beginnings of which can be seen on the left of this photograph.
